RICHMOND, KENTUCKY, USA.

September 23, 2022-- The FAScholars, Inc. is honored to announce its scholarship award winners this year. Winners are selected based on their commitment to improving their local community and using their unique talents to nurture efforts to address a specific, pressing need they see. Winners are chosen regardless of their colors, creeds, or cultures.

"We have seen an increasing number of quality applications. It was a tough choice to pick a winner from the application pool," Dr. Faridah Awang, CEO, and President of the FAScholars, Inc., said. "We are pleased to award these scholarships to the following students to support their pursuit of education and exploration of career paths. These young leaders share a unified goal of positively impacting the greater community and world."

Applicants go through rigorous qualification stages where statements on goals and aspirations are evaluated. Online interviews with the Board members were required for the shortlisted applicants.

This year's FAScholars Program, Inc. recipients were selected in honor of Dr. Marcia A. Anderson and Madam Wook Ismail.

The FAScholars support merit- and need-based scholars. A FAScholar must demonstrate a positive engagement in community service, exhibit strong leadership qualities, be active in extracurricular activities, and show academic strength.
